Go to this website, create a username and then play Easy, Medium, and Hard Level 1 AS WELL AS Easy, Medium, and Hard Level 2. Each level contains 3 rounds of 5 articles each)

The goal is to identify each article as real or fake news. To get credit you must use the snipping tool to capture both article and results for each level and each round.

You will want to capture snipped shots for each article and level as well as providing your summary.

You should have approximately 30 snippets of 30 articles AND 30 snippets of 30 answers.

PLUS you should have a snippet of your beginning username, a snippet of each round summary (and be certain to make clear to label if the summary is HARD Level 1 Round 1, or HARD Level 1 Round 2, etc).

Plus a snapshot of your concluding summation of your performance. The submission does not need to be printed out.

Listed below are some snippet examples.

Mexican police force armed with slingshots after guns confiscated

Police in a troubled Mexican municipality have been equipped with slingshots and stones after state officials stripped officers of their weapons.

Only 30 officers of the 130-member police department in Alvarado, on Mexico's Gulf Coast, have passed firearm control tests and been deemed fit for service, prompting the Veracruz state public secretariat to disarm the force.

Mayor Bogar Ruiz Rosas said the force was made up of mostly new hires, who were scheduled to start training in the state police academy. A video on the Alvarado government's Facebook page showed the mayor handing out catapults and small bags of rocks to officers, in a symbolic act of protest.

The mayor insisted the disarming of local police in Alvarado was a political vendetta ahead of the July 1 elections on the national and state levels.
